Some items are restricted from sale at a farmer’s market by Iowa law. And some require a potentially hazardous food license. Please contact Nathan or Emily Paulsen if you have questions.

All vendors are responsible for their own insurance and liability.

Below is a link to a food safety training that does an excellent job explaining what is and what is not allowed and why. I have also provided a list outlining the basics of what can and cannot be sold. If you have questions beyond the list please watch the video and/or talk to Nathan or Emily Paulsen. The Food Safety Training is free.

We recommend that you watch the entire training but the 4th module specifically addresses value added products like baked goods and jams.

Sales Tax:

Most food items typically do not require you to collect sales tax but other items such as crafts (soaps, woodworking projects, etc) and potted plants do require it. Vendors are responsible for getting their own tax permit. For more information, check out the link provided below.
